I am writing in response to reivew of funding for music programs at Canterbury Girls Seecondary College. Music is an important aspect of my daughter's life and we have invested considerable time, effort and expense into developing her ability over the past 10 years. She has developed her ability in the violin to a very high standard as an individual. However the school provides the opportunity for her to develop solo and orchestral performances that encourage team work, chosion and community. The teachers also provide alternative approaches to playing and appreciating music as well as a broader spectrum of musical forms. They also have introduced other musical instruments for my daughter to try her hand at. These were all considerations in selecting this particular school for my daughter and has been one of the most pleasing aspects of her education. Please do not reduce the funding and implore you to consider either expanding or at the very least mainting funding at CPI rates.

Regards Angus
