

Civics is only about memorising
facts

Democracy always ensures fairness
and equality

Good citizenship
means blind loyalty
to the government

Citizenship is solely about legal status and nationality

Elected representatives are always able to directly act on public opinion

Civics only involves voting

Majority rule means everyone agrees

Democracies
always produce
the best leaders

A strong democracy is protected against corruption

Good representation ensures everyone's voice is heard

Civics is only for people interested in politics

Civics knowledge guarantees good citizenship

Citizenship is static and unchanging

Dual citizenship dilutes loyalty to a country

All democracies function the same way

My voice only counts if the party I voted for wins the election

Voting is the only way I get to have a say

You can only be a citizen of a country

Representation is purely about electorates

A representative's job ends after an election

Government and parliament are the same thing

There is no such thing as separation of powers

MPs only work during sitting weeks

Governments are either a democracy
or dictatorship

Compulsory voting makes the strongest democracy
