

Received 15 July 2015

Submission 226

MRS. M. MORRISSEY

So that it may concern.

At this age of 80 years, I have seen experiences of the elderly being beautifully handled with palliative care, who are serene with peace of mind and have confidence in their necessary assisted well-being.

I believe Euthanasia changes or can change the conscience of families related and many times are not in the best interest of the patient.

The elderly are particularly vulnerable in their helplessness and should be able to fulfil their lives with peace of mind not fear.

