My Mother had breast cancer, it spread thorough out her body excluding her neck and brain, for years earlier she complained about aches and pains I thought she was just playing for attention only to find out when she handed me her X-ray I saw the cancer and was shocked, the doctors said she had 6 months to live, she disagreed and fought hard and prayed hard it was 18 months later after all attempts and medicals were used that she said a devout Catholic, she said "I want to die" and "why is God punishing me" this went on for weeks, she eventually started seeing her long dead brothers and sisters even though I was her brother and not her son. All the while asking to die, I even told the doctors of her request, they just looked at me like a deer in head light. For 6 weeks she asked, "tell them I want to die" She did die after 6 weeks of suffering and torture, where her requests to end her suffering were ignored, she'd had enough. After 76 years of life she was deemed not adult enough to make a choice on her live. Heartless, so heartless.
