Subject: End of Life Decisions

I add my name to the 80% of the Australian population who cannot believe that Government has taken so long to seriously put this extremely important issue on the agenda. Surely the right to die when and how we wish and to have control over these decisions is a basic human right. I support whole heartedly the attempts by all who seek Law Reform on these matters. Palliative care is not and never has been enough in many, many cases and I and many others want the right to say "My life, my right, my vote"emphasis on "my" as I would not to seek to make decisions for others who do not want to vote this way.
