Many of us have witnessed a loved one dying a slow death. If our pets suffer in any way we are able to release them from the agony of a slow painful death, but we as humans cannot do that for our loved ones. We are forced to watch them die a slow cruel death.

We were forced to watch our beautiful 18 year old son die from serious injuries after a car crash. It is the most cruel torturous act. We treat our animals better!

I am now watching my 86 year old Mother in care waiting to die from Dementia, and my Husband has younger onset dementia. He was diagnosed at 56, he is now 60. He watches my Mother, and knows what is ahead. He is determined to not end that way.

When is a government going to be brave and courageous enough to take a stand in this country and legislate for controlled end of life choices?
