I believe that people have a right on how to end their life and the care they are to receive towards their death. That depending on the circumstance of the illness/injury, they make a variety of choices.

I would like to see a system in place where a person can make their choices while they are not ill or debilitated, that it is a legal and binding document drawn up like a Will.

Also, the choice should be allowed when a terminal prognosis is made, and in the case of severe ongoing pain.
