

From: [REDACTED]
To: LSIC
Subject: KINDER TO ANIMALS
Date: Sunday, 26 July 2015 4:42:23 PM

Why is it that humans [many, anyway] are so much kinder and more considerate of animals when their pet is suffering and in pain?

I have been diagnosed with incurable cancer and live on pain killing drugs - which aren't doing much for my liver or kidneys or even the chronic pain I have to bear.

I do not choose to eke out an extra few weeks or months by extending my misery with the side-effects of surgery, chemotherapy or radiation.

I have no living relatives and no reason to extend my life.

I feel it is my right to request a humane and painfree exit into blessed oblivion.

Louise Baker [72 years old]

This email has been checked for viruses by Avast antivirus software.

