Question

Nick McGOWAN:The Victorian government IT dashboard is designed to provide status updates on IT projects and the like across government. I understand that previously DPC committed a secretary to providing a quarterly update on the dashboard, and that was I think in response to a previous VAGO report. Do you know whether they are still doing that – whether they are providing those updates on the dashboard?

Jeremi MOULE: I will either need to take that on notice, or it is actually now a matter for the Department of Government Services. So what was previously Digital Victoria that was part of DPC was moved to the Department of Government Services in the machinery-of-government changes on 1 January.

Nick McGOWAN: This year – 1 January?

Jeremi MOULE: 1 January this year, post election. So that component that was previously part of DPC is now with that department.

Nick McGOWAN: Okay. Does anyone here have an answer to that or not necessarily – they are gone?

Jeremi MOULE: No, I am probably the most likely to have known the answer and I do not. So I am happy to either take it on notice, or –

Nick McGOWAN: Okay. If you do not mind, because I notice that the email address still refers to the DPC site, but they might not have updated it. I think their site has not been updated for some time, but maybe that is because it is no longer under your purview.

Jeremi MOULE: I will check for you.

Nick McGOWAN: Thank you. Take that as a compliment.

Jeremi MOULE: I appreciate that.

Nick McGOWAN: Under the Financial Management Act, agencies are required, I believe, to report quarterly on their ICT projects. Do you know if that was still occurring in the reporting period, certainly up until you had it?

Jeremi MOULE: Yes, it was.

Answer

The IT Dashboard makes it easy to see all Victorian Government IT and digital projects underway, including high-level information on how these projects are tracking.

The information provided on the Dashboard is accessible for the general public, industry and all government departments and agencies.

The Department of Government Services (DGS) is now responsible for publication of the IT Dashboard.

Departments and agencies are still required to provide regular reports on in-scope projects to DGS. DGS will update the IT Dashboard shortly to reflect achievements and progress made in 2022–2023.

Question

Nick McGOWAN: It was. Okay, thank you. I am going to throw in my own little bugbear question here, and that is about flags. I do not know who can change this rule, whether it is the Parliament or you, Secretary, but in my electorate office I have Aboriginal flags, and that is great; I have Victorian flags – they are a little bit harder to get rid of, in the nicest, loveliest possible way; but can we also have Australian flags? Considering that it took the states to come together to form the Federation, I would not have thought it would be too much of a stretch to ask if the electorate offices could also receive Aussie flags, God forbid. But I am happy for you to take that on notice as well.

Jeremi MOULE: And strangely, I think we are actually responsible for that.

Nick McGOWAN: I think you might be.

Jeremi MOULE: We are, in our protocol area. I will need to take that on notice, but if there is a shortage of Australian flags, I feel like we need to address that.

Answer

The Commonwealth Government has a flag distribution program, whereby the Australian Flag, Aboriginal Flag and Torres Strait Islander Flag are available to constituents and eligible organisations through the electorate office of a local Senator or Member of the House of Representatives.

Question

Nick McGOWAN: Okay. Mr Secretary, do you know how many staff were employed in the Premier's office and ministerial offices with salaries paid for by DPC in the reporting period – so 2021–22, 22–23?

Jeremi MOULE: We have got this one ready to go. I should just, in fullness to the answer to your first question, during the reporting period – and I will take this on notice to get you the detail – we did engage some additional administrative support to the office of the Premier. I think it was one FTE, because of the really significant surge during COVID of incoming correspondence and follow-ups from phone calls, where a message would be taken and someone needed to then activate a response to that. So I will take that on notice, but in addition to DLOs, we did do that during the reporting period.

Over the two financial years, 2021–22 and 2022–23, at 30 June 2022 the actual expenditure on ministerial staff across all offices was $53.5 million for 308 staff, and at 30 June 2023 actual expenditure on ministerial staff was $50.8 million for 296 staff across all offices. Both of those figures exclude any redundancy payments that might have been made as staff came and went from offices. That is fairly standard practice. But that is the breakdown of total costs and total FTE across the Premier and ministerial offices.

Answer

In the 2021–22 and 2022–23 financial years until November 2022 DPC employed one VPS 3 to provide administrative support to the Premier's office to respond to the high volume of correspondence and communications about the COVID-19 pandemic, in addition to the standard allocation of Department Liaison Officers.

Question

Nick McGOWAN: Any golden handshakes during those periods?

Jeremi MOULE: What you mean by that?

Nick McGOWAN: Golden handshake – somebody resigns at a future period, and they are simply paid out rather than asked to work their notice period.

Jeremi MOULE: Not that I am aware of. The redundancy provisions for ministerial staff as well as staff in the office of the Leader of the Opposition are codified and applied in a standard manner. I am not aware of any deviations from that.

Nick McGOWAN: Do you know how many redundancies there were in both of those periods?

Jeremi MOULE: I can take that on notice. We could provide that.

Answer

There was a total of 10 redundancies of ministerial staff in the 2021–22 financial year and 85 redundancies of ministerial staff in the 2022–23 financial year.

Question

Nick McGOWAN:Do you know how many WorkCover claims were made by staff in the Premier's office or ministerial offices in the same periods, 2021–22 and 2022–23?

Jeremi MOULE: I will have to take that on notice. I am not even sure that we would know, but I will take it on notice, yes.

Answer

In the 2021–22 financial year, there was one accepted WorkCover claim for the Premier's office, and no claims were made for ministerial offices. In 2022–23, no WorkCover claims were received for either the Premier's office or ministerial offices.

Question

Nick McGOWAN: Okay. Thank you for both of those. Do you know the total government expenditure on advertising content development for the Premier's Facebook and other social media in 2021–22, 2022–23?

Jeremi MOULE: In relation to the Premier's Facebook, we do not have any visibility of content production, other than to say it is often re-use of existing material, so we recognise some of it because it is existing government material. Departments do not make any material specifically for the Premier – or for the now former Premier's office during that period. But I do have the advertising cost figures.

Nick McGOWAN: Yes, please. We are happy if you would just like to –

Jeremi MOULE: I can take that on notice.

Answer

The department is not aware of any expenditure on advertising content development for the Premier's Facebook page.

Question

Danny O'BRIEN: Okay. In developing the local government engagement strategy, was the department directed by government not to engage with local councils about it?

Terry GARWOOD: No, certainly not.

Danny O'BRIEN: Were they involved in the negotiations?

Terry GARWOOD: No. Well, what occurred with the negotiations is the land justice unit that is within DPC was formerly within the Department of Justice and Community Safety. They are very skilled and experienced in this space. They have been operating the Traditional Owner Settlement Act since 2010. This legislation has been around for a very long time – 13 years – and they have negotiated a number of recognition and settlement agreements, and all of them have some involvement of aspirations with local government.

Danny O'BRIEN: The question, though, is: was local government involved in the negotiations?

Terry GARWOOD: To the extent that there were matters to do with that local government engagement element, the department did engage with a number of councils up there in relation to the details that are in there. I know there have been discussions and things said in the media about that engagement, but as I said earlier, the land justice unit are quite experienced in the importance of engaging with local government. They did engage with local government in this case. I cannot talk for how every part of what each council is aware or not aware of that engagement. But there certainly was engagement.

Danny O'BRIEN: Could you provide a list of the councils that were engaged on this particular aspect?

Terry GARWOOD: Yes, I can do that.

Answer

The Land Justice Unit in DPC wrote to the following councils in February 2018 about the Traditional Owner Settlement Act negotiations that commenced the previous year: Mildura Rural City Council; West Wimmera Shire Council; Northern Grampians Shire Council; Southern Grampians Shire Council; Buloke Shire Council; Hindmarsh Shire Council; Pyrenees Shire Council; Yarriambiak Shire Council; Horsham Rural City Council; and Ararat Rural City Council. The Land Justice Unit and the Barengi Gadjin Land Council held a workshop with those councils about the Local Government Engagement Strategy in June 2023.

The Strategy is a commitment to engage with councils. It does not commit or bind councils to any actions. Engagement with those councils is ongoing. DPC looks forward to mutually beneficial outcomes arising from the engagement over coming months for Western Victorian communities and Barengi Gadjin Land Council community.

Question

Terry GARWOOD: Yes, we have significantly increased our funding in relation to support for processing those applications, and we recognise it is a challenge, particularly for Wurundjeri and Bunurong because of the extent of development in Melbourne – it goes without saying. We are focused on trying to support and assist them in every way possible, so additional funding has been provided to both of them.

Danny O'BRIEN: Can I ask how much?

Terry GARWOOD: I will take that on notice and provide you with the details.

Answer

The 2022–2023 Victorian Budget provided funding of $131,000 per annum for an additional officer for each of the three Registered Aboriginal Parties with the highest development pressures — Wurundjeri, Bunurong and Wadawurrung.

Question

Danny O'BRIEN: In May the Age reported that PKF integrity, a forensic accounting firm, had been appointed to look into some issues of alleged mismanagement at Bunurong land council back in 2022. Did the department receive any briefings on this matter from Bunurong or PKF through 2022?

Terry GARWOOD: Not that I am aware of, but I will have to take that on notice as well. That is well before my time.

Danny O'BRIEN: Okay.

Jeremi MOULE: Not that I am aware of either, Mr O'Brien. We will take it on notice. I have got longer tenure than Mr Garwood and I do not recall that.

Answer

The department received no briefings from the Bunurong Land Council Aboriginal Corporation or from the forensic accounting firm. The Bunurong Land Council Aboriginal Corporation is incorporated under Commonwealth law.

Question

Danny O'BRIEN: Okay. In 2015 the Federal Court banned a number of former executives of the Bunurong land council from running an Aboriginal corporation for seven years. That seven years obviously now has expired. Is the department aware of any of those people currently running or otherwise employed by an Aboriginal corporation or public sector body?

Terry GARWOOD: I am not aware, but now you have made me aware I shall make a point of finding out as to whether that has occurred or not. But I am not aware.

Jeremi MOULE: No. I was going to seek to clarify one of your earlier questions in relation to those that had been prohibited from employment for a period of seven years. You are now asking whether they are employed, because they are legally able to be.

Danny O'BRIEN: Absolutely.

Jeremi MOULE: Is that the question?

Danny O'BRIEN: Yes.

Jeremi MOULE: Okay.

Danny O'BRIEN: I am interested to know. But I guess there is nothing stopping them under that judgement, of course.

Jeremi MOULE: Yes. Thank you.

Answer

No. The department notes that the disqualifications from that 2015 ruling have expired. It notes that none of the persons the subject of that Federal Court ruling appear in the latest membership list for the Bunurong Land Council Aboriginal Corporation, according to the Register of Indigenous Corporations under the Corporations (Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander) Act 2006 (Cth).

Question

Danny O'BRIEN: If you could come back to me if you find anything, that would be good. A quick question: in 2021–22 or 2022–23 did the department conduct any polling or consultations with the general Victorian population with respect to attitudes to treaty in Victoria?

Terry GARWOOD: Sorry, what period are you talking about?

Danny O'BRIEN: In the period that we are looking at.

Terry GARWOOD: No, not that I am aware of.

Danny O'BRIEN: None at all?

Terry GARWOOD: Not that I am aware of.

Danny O'BRIEN: And no public research?

Terry GARWOOD: Not that I am aware of.

Danny O'BRIEN: Okay. Would you be able to check when you say, 'Not that I am of'? And Secretary, have you got anything further to add?

Jeremi MOULE: No.

Danny O'BRIEN: Okay. So as far as you are aware, no research or polling of the community has been done?

Terry GARWOOD: I will check on that and take it on notice. I am almost certain that the answer is no, but I just want to check.

Answer

The department has not identified the commissioning of any polling of Victorians with respect to attitudes to Treaty in Victoria in the 2021–22 or 2022–23 periods.

Question

Bev McARTHUR: IRV provides specialised industrial relations advice to government. How many briefings, formal or informal, did DPC or IRV provide to the Premier's and ministerial offices in relation to EBA negotiations and disputes across the Victorian public sector?

Matt O'CONNOR: Well, firstly, I think I will have to take that on notice.

Bev McARTHUR: That is fine.

Matt O'CONNOR: Can you give me a period for that, please?

Bev McARTHUR: For these two financial periods.

Matt O'CONNOR: For the two financial years we are talking about? Yes, I will take that on notice if I can.

Answer

IRV prepared 22 briefs (through the department's electronic briefing system) about public sector enterprise bargaining agreements during the period of 1 July 2021 and 30 June 2023.

Question

Ellen SANDELL: Okay. Related to the electoral system, so I am not sure who this is best directed to, how much did it cost in those two budget years to move from multimember wards to single-member wards for local council elections?

Jeremi MOULE: That has not been fully implemented yet. The government will at some stage –

Ellen SANDELL: It has in some areas.

Jeremi MOULE: The government will need to, most likely early next year, gazette final arrangements for ward structures for councils across the state. But that is very much a partial implementation in terms of cost. Is that the specific –

Ellen SANDELL: Yes.

Jeremi MOULE: I think we will need to take that on notice. I do not recall that being in the pack, no.

Answer

VEC costs in 2021–2022 and 2022–2023

The table below outlines the costs incurred by the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC) in the 2021–22 and 2022–23 financial years to support the transition from a multi-member ward structure to a single councillor ward structure as provided by the VEC. These relate to the costs of necessary by-elections necessarily incurred as a result of the transition to a single councillor ward structure.

Council	Amount invoiced to Council	VEC net cost amount	VEC incurred total cost
Cardinia Shire Council — Westernport Ward	$ 71,602	$ 13,533	$ 85,135
Maroondah City Council — Wonga Ward	$ 76,746	$ 12,740	$ 89,486
Yarra Ranges Shire Council — Streeton Ward	$ 90,780	$ 15,614	$ 106,394
Mornington Peninsula Shire Council — Watson Ward	$ 122,475	$ 19,718	$ 142,193
	$ 361,603	$ 61,605	$ 423,208

The VEC has advised that costs to councils in a by-election include costs associated with:

- Communications campaign costs: Statutory advertisements, reminder advertisements, multi-language ballot pack leaflets and translating and interpreting services.
- Election office operational costs: Accommodation, computer equipment, furniture, equipment, stationery and general postage, forms, manuals, telephone costs, couriers and logistics, motor vehicles and staffing.
- Printing of ballot material: Envelopes, candidates' statements, and ballot papers.

Other agencies

Local Government Victoria, in the Department of Government Services, has advised that it did not have any expenditure in the 2021–22 and 2022–23 financial years to support the transition of councils from a multi-member ward structure to a single councillor ward structure.
