

2025–26 Victorian State Budget

The Hon. Natalie Hutchins MP
Minister for Prevention of Family Violence

5 June 2025

Families,
Fairness
and Housing

Our portfolio

- › Changing the attitudes and behaviours that lead to violence through a range of primary prevention initiatives
- › Ensuring victim-survivors – including children and young people – can access the help they need, when they need it
- › Working collaboratively with frontline services to ensure perpetrators remain visible, accountable and motivated to change their behaviour
- › Driving whole-of-government reform and measuring its impact
- › Building a more connected, inclusive and responsive system across the state

Our achievements in 2024-25

- › The 2024-25 state budget invested $141.9m for:
 - » Delivery of critical frontline and crisis responses to people experiencing family violence, including therapeutic supports for children
 - » Expanded suite of interventions to change perpetrator behaviour, such as Case Management and tailored programs for diverse cohorts
 - » Operation of the Central Information Point.
- › The $92.8m Strengthening Women's Safety Package increased crisis and therapeutic services for victim survivors as well as innovative programs such as:
 - » Safe at Home 3-year trial in Geelong, to provide wrap around support to 54 victim survivors to remain in their home and community
 - » Nation-leading Ballarat Community Saturation Model to drive down rates of men's violence against women
 - » Aboost to the Personal Safety Initiative, providing technology and security responses, such as home alarms, security cameras, personal duress alarms, or fencing for victim survivors to stay safely at home
