As a family that lives in the bush we support our CFA ... the commitment and dedication shown by the local volunteers is inspiring. Our local brigades are just that ... local ... community members that seek nothing more than to serve their neighbourhood and on those dreadful days, join together with other volunteer brigades to protect other rural communities.

It's not about power ... it's not about money. .. it's about pride in the legacy of volunteering. .. pride in serving ... and we cannot see where the proposed restructuring will in anyway enhance this great tradition but rather serve to diminish.

There is a sadness in our rural community at what is seen to be nothing more than politically driven, ideological opportunism that will see the slow death of our volunteer brigades.
