Lakes Oil doesn't involve unconventional drilling as I understand it.
If I am correct why have last two Victorian governments refused permission for Lakes Oil to proceed to production.
What is the reason for this stupidity.
In recent years the US has turned their economy around by increasing production of oil and gas, while our leaders are incapable of making decisions for fear of loosing votes from those against drilling, any type of drilling and without any proof that harm will result.

Australia is becoming increasingly unproductive in every direction while you politicians are afraid to do anything that might upset the so called greens.

With this kind of cowardly do nothing attitude Australia is sliding into certain oblivian.
