I am against the process of fracking for gas exploration and extraction. It is foolish and history will prove us poor protectors of our environment, sacrificing ground water and other agricultural resources at the expense of a finite gas resource, which can be produced in other ways. This industry is driven by greed and selfishness with no regard for future generations. This industry is not locally driven, rather it is off-shore interests which are unconcerned about the long term effects of the methods used. It is not even going to be consumed locally, rather it will be exported at ridiculous discounts which makes the whole process even more shameful whilst leaving its polluted legacy for our children.
