I am saddened and confused that our government is even considering the licensing of CSG Mining in our state of Victoria. Just 5 minutes on any media will show the devastation of farming and communities all round the world and for what? a low grade gas that is all exported for very little money. The major drivers of this industry are all foreign owned and have no long term interest in our farmland or tourist industry. Imagine taking someone along the great ocean road and have to explain how we allowed a gas field near the beauty of the coast. Or tell a farmer sorry your bores dried up, it was an accident with a drill rig. To the people debating this industry, it is not just our future you are playing with but generations to come. They are the ones left to clean up mistakes made now.
