I am disgrace to hear that the Government would even think of going a head with this mining in our rural area, we have been devastated with bush fires, pollution from the Morwell mine fire, we have had earth quakes in our area and now you have decided with out considering the people in our area. CGG is not the solution for a fast dollar in our magnificent country, other countries are banning this form of mining is that not a concern for us. Depleting our farm land selling off our commodities to others so soon Australia people with have new owners, a republic! This is a dangerous game to play, I know that 96% of the people in my area don't want CSG, the figures say it all. Listen to the people, I have worked in the farming industry and know the strain that these people deal with an to take their water and land away would only bring more heart ache and mental health issues even death in some cases. You are deal with their lives and lively hood.

I would like to say that this is dangerous to humans and animals it's should not be about the money grab.
