To whom it may concern,

There is currently no regulating body within government who truly has animal welfare at its core. The current interest lies within the profit the agricultural industry can make which is completely cruel. Activism is the only thing that is exposing the exploitation, torture and illegality of the animal agriculture industry. History shows that some of humanities greatest triumphs have been through activism. Laws which attempt to silence and condemn activists set a dangerous precedent in our free democracy, and we should lament any government taking steps to restrict the voice of it's people.
