Subject: Farmers and animal activists

I would like to voice my thoughts on animals activists who are invading farmers around Australia. These people do not have the best interests of the animals at heart. They do not know how to care for the animals they steal which often means the animal dies or its' health is seriously compromised.

These people are trespassing, destroying property, stealing livestock, destroying livestock through lack of care and destroying the bio science of the land. These activists are also hassling patrons at restaurants and in the streets near popular food outlets. They do not accept that people have the right to decide if they want to consume meat or not.

I would like to see the government, both State and Federal, impose strict guidelines, large fines and jail terms, conviction recorded, to all apprehended activists. All money from individual and group fines to be given to the farmer as a token for stress, loss and damage caused by the activists. Remember in the 1800's these people would be hanged.
