1. Parliament has no interest in placing an official in charge of the welfare of animals. These positions are for people with an interest in the profit earned through farming. Hence the reason for this Inquiry. With regulation and laws there would be less need for animal activism.
2. Farmers and agricultural companies base operating practices on their main motivation for operating the business; making a profit. Animals suffer routinely..not to mention are mostly killed, with no laws to protect animals used for commercial purposes.
3. Animal activism exists to bring awareness to the lack of laws and regulation to protect these animal species from cruelty.
