I would like to see the Government align themselves with animal welfare in an unbiased manner. Too many politicians, media giants and the Australian wealthy are invested in Animal Agriculture so there is a conflict of interest for this topic to go any further. Like activists of previous times, there is always controversy to challenge the "what we have always done" thinking. We have to start eating humble pie and accept that mainstream veganism is coming and it is not a bad thing. Our farmers can diversify and create wealth plus have a positive impact on the environment.
