As a livestock producer I have been appalled by the footage from animal activists. Overwhelmingly farmers care very much for the livestock under their management and we produce products that the public love to enjoy.

I love farming and my family has worked hard for generations in an industry that has an amazing future. It appears that these activists are very passionate about their cause but this shouldn't allow them to disrupt the farming sector and delivery chain of our produce.

I believe that harsher penalties are the answer to the activists overstepping the mark. Legislate fines that act as a severe deterrent and for repeat offenders the risk of jail time.
