I refute the claims whistleblowers cause more negative outcomes than positive. And respond that the vile acts done to these animals should be the ones investigated and the perpetrators given jail time.

Livestock should be afforded the exact same protection that our domestic pets receive, and the whistleblowers and rescuers should also be protected by the law. We ask that people speak up against domestic abuse and call it out, nothing less should be expected for these sentient beings who are bred into existence.

CCTV should be mandatory in all facilities holding livestock. Fines should be imposed for those who do not uphold the laws of protection that should be afforded these animals.

Regular scheduled and unscheduled inspections should take place of these properties.

Please protect these animals and those who are speaking up for them instead of punishing them.
