It is vitally important not to criminalise whistle blowers. Without the people brave enough to monitor/film/trespass/expose cruel actions of those whom we trust to care for our animals we would have no idea how much they have failed the animals in their care. To expect an industry that monetises living creatures to put their welfare above profit is totally naive and impossible to rely on. Please consider that the welfare of these animals much be paramount, they have no voice and need whistle blowers and animal liberationists to be that voice. The future for these animals will be graver still without these people, and the people we choose to become relies on this decision. Please do not put money above humanity.
