

---

Inquiry Name: Inquiry into the Impact of Animal Rights Activism on Victorian Agriculture

K. McGarvie

SUBMISSION CONTENT:

--

Trespass laws need to be enforced to prevent spread of disease, risk of harm or death to livestock or humans by escaped stock. Home invasions are no less distressing because it is a farm, and are simply unjust. It is imperative that animal activists must abide by the same rules as farmers. Issues with an individual's behaviour working in abattoirs is no excuse to invade farms. More education is required as to why farming practices exist, noting all farmers agree (such as taking calves off their mothers in hours), and programs initiated to address behaviour at abattoirs.

--

File1:

File2:

File3: