To whom it may concern,
i am very concerned about the progress of Australia in terms of animal rights. The lack of ethical standards in the meat and dairy industry that lead to extreme and cruelty and encourage violent/abusive behaviour from the workers are of great concern to me and many others in my network. Not only are these animals afforded no rights to their most basic needs to live with any comfort, but the people working in the industry are being conditioned to develop to conduct of hardened criminals. Numerous studies demonstrate the links between violence towards animals and the progression of it to violence towards people. As much as I am concerned with the well-being of the animals, I would like to point out the latter concern for those in our community who may find that this threat is more relevant to themselves and we can stand together with the same end goal in mind...putting an end to this atrocious conduct in Australian workplaces which completely undermine our social conscience.
