

Inquiry Name: Inquiry into the Impact of Animal Rights Activism on Victorian Agriculture

Ms Sue Johnson
[REDACTED]

SUBMISSION CONTENT:

--

Instead of gagging and punishing those who expose systematic animal suffering, the Australian Government would best serve the people it represents by establishing stricter, more humane regulations for all agricultural industries. It requires a significant investment, but there is equally a significant groundswell of Australian consumers wanting evidence of decency and transparency. Ag-gag laws will set Australia on a path that is antithetical to progress.
