

The current restrictions discriminate in an unacceptable way against International Students, who are obliged to pay heavy fares simply getting from their (often expensive and overcrowded) accommodation to the University.

If Melbourne is to continue to attract overseas students, making daily life a little easier for them would be a small, welcome step.

Dr Juliet Flesch

Sent from my iPhone