Extending the free tram zone to RMIT and University of Melbourne, Parkville Campus, would be of great benefit to students and staff who require tram transport from Melbourne Central to get to University. While there are many arguments that students (particularly at RMIT) can walk the extra distance, this is not an accessible option for some students and staff and financially punishes those who physically cannot travel that distance on foot.

Extending the free tram zone would be a more equitable transport option.

Adding extra stops would also ease congestion at the Melbourne Central stop, as many students would catch the tram at UniMelb, Lincoln Square or RMIT.
