By anyone's understanding, these zones look and feel like part of the city. To make matters worse, the restricted zoning has lead to a situation where enforcement officers often "stake out" stations just outside the free zone to "nab" numerous people with expensive fines - which has all the appearance of a blatant ploy to profit from naivety and from students who can least afford it. This does little to enhance the reputation of public transport or encourage usage. Please end this illogical restriction.
