I am a student of Melbourne University, which is very close to Melbourne Central but doesn't falls under free tram zone. As a student I frequently visit State Library Victoria, which falls under free tram zone, in front of Melbourne Central. It is very arduous task for me to frequently walk down all the way from Melbourne University to the library or I have to shell out $4.30 per trip for such a short distance. It would be more beneficial for students like me who would like to use the state library usefully without spending extra money in our monthly budget.
