The free tram zone is an excellent initiative to encourage people to use public transport around the city. I support the extension of this free zone to include the Parkville precinct - the University of Melbourne, the Royal Melbourne, Royal Women's, Royal Children and Peter MacCallum Hospitals. Extending the free tram zone out to The University of Melbourne on Royal Parade and Swanston st, and out to the Royal Childrens on Flemington Parade will encourage people to use public transport to attend these facilities, enable international visitors to easily attend these institutions and generally improve traffic conditions around the area.
