As a regular traveller on the Sturt St (No 1) tram and also on the Market St (No 58) tram, I see regular anomalies created by one stop.

This is created by the Arts Centre and the Casino stops which are just over the river. The Spencer St (Exhibition Convention Centre) is another case but not one I use.

I would like to see these first stops included by merely interpreting the zone cutoffs to be based on the tram stop in which the tram is boarded, this allowing to travel one stop extra.

When boarding at the extra stop, across the river, the cutoff would be at the termination of that leg of the trip. Thus, if either end of the single leg journey was in the Zone, then it would be considered free travel within the zone. This will require no redrawing of zones.
