

I would like to remain anonymous please, because no doubt I would be targeted by groups/gangs of Hoons, car enthusiasts and bikies if my name is realised with my honest thoughts. I already get enough hoons harassing me outside my home. For this reason my submission needs to be confidential please.

If I can't be unnamed then I do not give permission for my submission to be published!

Hoon driving and speeding is increasing because those that think it's cool to do so are having children and teaching them likewise.

If there was less cars and motorbikes on the roads we would see less deaths.

Increase the costs of petrol, gas and diesel which could cut road use down.

Adequate harsh punishments for hoons and reckless drivers need to be introduced.

Repeat offenders need to have their vehicles confiscated and either crushed or auctioned off for revenue. Also lengthy loss of licence should be applied.

People lose their licence for drink driving and actually manage to use public transport or get rides to work, so licence loss for hoons and reckless drivers should also be brought in. There's no excuse for endangering other people's lives. It's better to issue a licence loss than to have lives lost.

If this happened more often, more people would be more deterred from doing the wrong things on our roads.

Currently the system is far too soft on offenders and those who break the road laws which only enables them.

Fines alone do not work because in a way it's just a way of simply paying to be able to hoon and speed, also many do not pay and just simply default the fines into a bit of community work. This does nothing to deter.

There is absolutely no need for cars that are vamped up or cars that travel over 120km apart from emergency vehicles such as ambulance or police cars.

Fast cars only enable speeders, car thieves and police car chases, and too often the offenders can get away from the police or the chase is called off.

It is absurd how high powered cars are allowed to be sold and used in our state!

This is very illogical!

People also believe that they are indestructible if they drive 4WDs or SUVs with bull bars and I don't believe this helps our road tolls either.

As long as high powered fast cars are allowed to be brought and more and more drivers are using our roads, common sense tells us that the statistics are not going to get much lower.

I know people who have never held drivers licenses and who travel by public transport everywhere they need to go, and it has not killed them yet.

We need less money spent on roads and instead more money spent on public transport.

Also take bike licences off those known to be in bikie gangs.

This would desecrate Victoria's bikie gangsters problems as well as lower the number of motorbikes on our roads.

Motorbikes are dangerous and statistically they create deaths.
