I would like to see the one metre rule legislated. I am a rider and are part of a cycling group called NillumBUG.

We have riders mainly of age above 50 years and over. Some of our group are road riders. If this rule was implemented maybe car drivers would give bike riders on roads more consideration .

I am aware there are roads which are narrow and would make this rule a little hard to comply but the majority of roads would hopefully make the bike rider a little more protected from cars driving too close to them.

I am well aware of bike riders being loved or hated but in case of an accident with a car hopefully the metre rule could be useful in helping to determine an outcome .
