YOUR SUBMISSION

Submission:

I would like to see artificial fragrance dispensers removed from all public restrooms and spaces where public are forced to inhale their toxic fumes. The chemicals in them are dangerous and often set at heights where they puff into faces and coat skin and clothing. More and more they are installed electronically in venues and myself and many others come away with symptoms such as nausea, stinging eyes, foul perfume taste in mouth, asthma and breathing impairment, shakiness and emotion instability. They are touted as "air fresheners" but the actual best air freshener is air and good ventilation should be a major factor in any building design. The skin cancer clinic I attend has a bathroom that is sickeningly unuseable and what is crazy is that the synthetic fragrance ingredients in fact contain carcinogens. My local Leisure centre pool and gym, a so called wellness venue, has them. I go to my local council offices a week ago and use bathroom and cannot actually breath while I am in there and come away with the junk coating my respiratory passages and soaking straight into my blood stream. I wish to live in a society that values health. Constantly I get asked to donate to cancer research, etc., but all around cancer causing agents are being inflicted with no sense of consequences. It is the new passive smoking and it really needs addressing. There is plenty of research into the harm.
