

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Stephen John Piggott, [REDACTED]

I live in Belgrave and people think it must be lovely to live with all the trees and animals.

The thing is most of the plants are pests / weeds and most of the animals are pests / feral, I reckon the majority of plant and animal life is problematic.

Cats (domestic and feral) Dogs (domestic and feral) Rabbits, Indian Miners, Dear, Foxes and probably my most hated, European Wasps.

The creeks are polluted by septic tanks, roads and gardens, the bush habitats and food sauces are not there because of European style gardens, clearing, development etc and total lack of education and encouragement to weed pests and plant local species.

We must act now for the future.

Weeding, cleaning and planting crews. Leadership and vision to effectively manage our environment.

Regards

Stephen John Piggott