

[REDACTED]

From: pinata bloom [REDACTED]
Sent: Friday, 3 July 2020 1:01 AM
To: ecosystems
Subject: Instinction Inquiry

Categories: Submissions

Hi,
I love what I have explored of the Victorian bushland. We don't need any more of it logged, as fires destroyed a lot of it last year. Please realise and find in your heart that it is special. This is going to take some stepping back from whatever other influences you may have.

As the most cleared state, with endangered species, it can be a tourist hotspot, where people can appreciate and enjoy the beauty of the areas.

Alternatives to logging include replanting ecosystems, boosting tourism in the region, education programs, and real conservation and repopulation programs.

Being a leader means listening to what is required. In this day and age of climate catastrophe, you are needed to act swiftly, honestly and openly.

Thank you
Alex Bloom
[REDACTED]

You're welcome to keep my submission public.