I am deeply concerned re unremitting environmental degradation and destruction which has many causes. One of the many is land clearing which is responsible for much extinction of native flora and fauna. The urban fringe is continually expanding to accommodate an increasing and unacceptably high level of immigration. A well considered population policy not based on a spurious inaccurate and naive understanding of GDP should be a major aspect of an appropriate environmental policy. It would be very acceptable to a huge number of voters. Zita Marks.
