A major part of an enquiry into this matter will be to check claims and two media organisations stand out - The Age and the ABC which are totally anti-nuclear with blatant lies. Several months ago this year in a large article on Japan, it wrote that "Japan is weaning itself off nuclear". They are extending their large nuclear electricity network. ABC's Tony Jones claimed "It takes 30 years to build a nuclear power plant". That particular plant took 33 years, which included a period of military dictatorship and a war; and the Argentines do not wish to discuss it. 3 to 5 years is usual for the 20 to 30 power plants being built somewhere at any time.
