At Brisbane City Council we created a waste water recycling plant next to VISY board and Other Chemical Factories on Gibson Island in Brisbane as these industries were one of the larges users of drinking water during the drought. It would make sense to harvest waste water to clean it up for industrial use at Waste Water Treatment Plants in all capital cities or where there are recycling factories like VISY so that waste water can be used directly into these paper pulp recycling factories. The two industries can benefit using waste water to produce recycled materials or chemicals should be sited next to each other.
