

Secondly, the current priority system needs to be reviewed, so that people can be supported with housing in their own communities as a priority. Further to this, investment into varied housing options that are more affordable to provide, upkeep and rent. I.e tiny houses and other more sustainable dwellings.

Thirdly, a holistic approach to housing support and provision must be taken, so that people are provided with the correct support, skill development and coping abilities to lead successful lives.