YOUR SUBMISSION

Submission:

A public sex offenders register is, I feel, a duty of the government to provide. As a victim of sexual assault, but also a parent, the fear of the unknown prevents you from allowing your children to enjoy freedom within limits. Not being given the knowledge that your neighbour or family friend has been convicted of a horrific crime is, in my opinion, a betrayal of trust between the powerful (those who "know") and the people. Ordinary people deserve to know who to watch around their children to prevent further crimes being committed against them and then potentially perpetuated for generations to come. I share this opinion with many family members and friends, I feel that the law abiding majority would welcome it, who wouldnt except those who might appear on that register?
