YOUR SUBMISSION

Submission:

It is hypocritical that cannabis is treated as a serious drug while alcohol is consumed to excess in our society. In a perfect world we would have no drugs of any kind but history shows that humans have always been attracted to a wide range of chemical products to achieve a particular effect.

Cannibis effects for the majority of users is far less than alcohol. I'm speaking as a person who had his last exposure to cannibis over40 years ago

Do you have any additional comments or suggestions?:

We should as I suggested earlier look at overseas experience before making decisions. If it's shown that making it legal or at least decriminalised has no significance to society then it should be done.

Taking cannibis supply out of the hands of criminals would be a huge improvement than what we have now. In addition medical usage should be unrestricted
