What strain are you bloody space cadets smoking? If you really cared about public health in this country you'd do something about drinking culture and alcohol abuse. But of course, the alcohol industry is lining your pockets, and marijuana is an inconvenient revenue sap from the the legal drug cartel that you spend millions advertising and subsidising as "culture". Jesus christ, as if a woman being beaten by her drunk husband is cultured, as if hurling your guts out on the streets of the CBD is cultured, as if the many causes of death related to alcohol consumption are cultured. That is totally fine with you, the corporate goons of Spring St, but someone carrying/smoking/selling some harmless plant matter is a criminal? Like christ, I get it, doing drugs can sometimes be harmful (I've just outlined the harm of a perfectly legal substance) but lord almighty more harm will come to you from being incarcerated than will ever come from smoking a bit of weed. Just between you and me big man, just because it's illegal doesn't mean nobody smokes: just about everyone I know has or does regularly, myself included (lock me up, cmon). So what you thick-skulled stooges are essentially doing is taking something relatively harmless, socially acceptable and common, making it a crime, causing more harm than the drug itself for no other reason than some wild 20th century authoritarian hysteria. Wow, aren't you a big brained specimen, fucken, cranius maximus. Like holy shit man the hippies aren't going to come back and overthrow the government (as much as we wish they all would) just because you decriminalise (or if you had any sense about public health, legalise and regulate) some happy plant. I swear, the day you legalise pot I will personally roll you cunts all a fat J on me, cheers and get fucked you wankers.

Do you have any additional comments or suggestions?:

Nah, just make sure to tell one of those MP spuds to read this aye
