Do you have any additional comments or suggestions?:

Cannabis as a natural and medicinal plant, needs to be readily and cheaply accessible, grown organically without the use of any chemicals and available to everyone that can receive a benefit from it. Currently it is expensive and hard to obtain by a doctor In turn forcing a person to purchase on the “black market”. Personal use needs to be decriminalised as well as legalised across a federal level to avoid the catastrophes that America has experienced. Personal cultivation needs to fall under this same branch so it can be utilised by anyone in need for quality of life or other without having to risk a criminal record for something that can be deemed medicine. It’s archaic to still be imprisoning and ruining people life over possession or use of a plant particularly when alcohol is readily and legally available without limits unless the use takes place in a licensed establishments and even then there’s often not someone making sure everyone consumption level is safe. Alcohol also leads to deaths, accidents and illnesses and yet one person has directly died from cannabis use and can be consumed in a way that can negate the level of physical harm that could take place via smoking.
