I don't believe that there is any reason to keep marijuana an illicit substance any further. There have been countless studies showing the medicinal qualities it has and personally I think this is just scratching the surface. The way has been paved by multiple countries already and it is time for Victoria to start capitalising on this as well. My mother has a degenerative hip conditions which causes her a lot of pain. I've had some experience with marijuana and firmly believe it would improve her quality of life greatly. However as it would be out if the question for me to suggest she try anything illegal this is not currently an option. Hiw about we catch up with the times and legalise pot for the good of everyone. More harmful and less helpful things get prescribed by doctors so... that is all.
