YOUR SUBMISSION

Submission:

In my opinion the all drugs should be decriminalised, regulated, produced and distributed by the government. All the drugs would be made to a high standard so the health issues associated with bad production would be avoided. Also all the criminal organisations that rely on drug production to fund their operations would cease to have that income. All the taxes that come from drug distribution and sales would be able to fund the public health sector which not only would increase funding for hospitals and social work that could tackle all of the health issues that already exist with abuse or drugs. If drugs are decriminalised then we can also educate people properly without bias on the true effects of drugs. I would like to see a system where to get prescribed a certain drug than you would need to go get a license for that drug via and educational program. Then you would be able to get it from the pharmacy. There would be a national system setup to stop people abusing over use of drugs as there is with current pharmaceuticals. As in the past we have seen that prohibition doesn't work so why should we keep on ignoring this opportunity to stop imprisoning and punishing people for something that is in their nature. Let's take advantage of this opportunity to boost our economy and the educate the next generation to use drugs in a sensible way.
