I believe that Electronic voting is the way of the future. With My GOV being utilised for other important confidential matters such as Tax and Centrelink, there should be no issue connecting a My Vote into the services section. Regarding the crashing of the site, the voting could be held over 2 weeks, allowing people to log on at their convenience, with text and email reminders being sent during that period. For those without a computer, a number of temporary internet cafes could be set up for voting purposes, along with the use of centrelink public access computers being used.
