SURVEY

Q1. Encouraging social media platforms to take more action against inappropriate activities (such as bots, harassment, trolling, spreading fake news).

Response: Good idea

Reach more people and encourage involvement

Q2. The government funding media literacy campaigns to help people know what they can trust online.

Response: Bad idea

How would propaganda assist people to know what to trust online.

Education on the Commonwealth Constitution is the key.

Q3. Requiring public disclosure of all online political advertising (for example, webpages created by social media platforms showing all of the political advertising on their platform and who paid for it, or webpages created by parties/candidates showing all of the online ads they have run).

Response: Good idea

Disclosure of the funding source

Q4. Requiring online electoral advertising to state who paid for it.

Response: Very good idea

To see where true allegiance and influence lays

Q5. Government support for independent and trust-worthy organisations that can fact-check claims or identify misinformation.

Response: Bad idea

Fact check has proven to be bullshit and lies on most platforms thus far.

Q6. Using independent organisations (e.g. the Victorian Electoral Commission) as a source of reliable information about electoral candidates.

Response: Not sure

VEC are criminal and unconstitutional

Q7. New laws requiring truth in political advertising.

Response: Good idea
Keep the bastards honest

Q8. Are there other things you'd like to see the government do relating to social media or online advertising and elections?

Response: Tell the truth.
Follow the Commonwealth Constitution.
One vote for a candidate of our choosing as per the law.
