Canterbury Girls Secondary School
parent at the school

Canterbury Girls Secondary School is an amazing government school. From what I know as an informed parent and teacher, their student results, achievements and the standard of teaching and programs equal those of quality private schools. The staff and in particular the music staff, are outstanding in their dedication and conscientiousness. The school is widely known for its wonderful music program with an amazing range of music programs, orchestras and ensembles offered. Talented music students out of zone (such as my own daughter) apply for entry to Canterbury Girls based on their music program. Any reduction in funding would be a terrible loss for the government school system.
