The main problems with road maintenance are the amount of time to fix problems. The overfilling of patches, which causes trucks air suspension to vibrate causing the road to deteriorate after the patch. The business of Shire maintenance workers filling holes with loose tar stones is pointless. It should at least be compacted.

The backlog of repairs is ongoing and until the Government puts real money into real repairs, the problem will persist.

I came into this area in 1985 and the roads were perfect. They are now outright dangerous.
